

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

DONALD ANSON,

Plaintiff,

07-CV-0035A(Sr)

v.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,

Defendant.

DECISION AND ORDER

Currently before the Court is plaintiff's second application for appointment of counsel pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e). Dkt. #65.

There is no constitutional right to appointed counsel in civil cases. However, under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e), the Court may appoint counsel to assist indigent litigants. See, e.g., Sears, Roebuck & Co. v. Charles W. Sears Real Estate, Inc., 865 F.2d 22, 23 (2d Cir. 1988). Assignment of counsel in this matter is clearly within the judge's discretion. In re Martin-Trigona, 737 F.2d 1254 (2d Cir. 1984). The factors to be considered in deciding whether or not to assign counsel include the following:

1. Whether the indigent's claims seem likely to be of substance;
2. Whether the indigent is able to investigate the crucial facts concerning his claim;
3. Whether conflicting evidence implicating the need for cross-examination will be the major proof presented to the fact finder;
4. Whether the legal issues involved are complex; and

5. Whether there are any special reasons why appointment of counsel would be more likely to lead to a just determination.

Hendricks v. Coughlin, 114 F.3d 390, 392 (2d Cir. 1997); see also Hodge v. Police Officers, 802 F.2d 58 (2d Cir. 1986).

The Court must consider the issue of appointment carefully, of course, because "every assignment of a volunteer lawyer to an undeserving client deprives society of a volunteer lawyer available for a deserving cause." Cooper v. A. Sargent Co. Inc., 877 F.2d 170, 172 (2d Cir. 1989). Therefore, the Court must first look to the "likelihood of merit" of the underlying dispute, Hendricks, 114 F.3d at 392; Cooper, 877 F.2d at 174, and "even though a claim may not be characterized as frivolous, counsel should not be appointed in a case where the merits of the . . . claim are thin and his chances of prevailing are therefore poor." Carmona v. United States Bureau of Prisons, 243 F.3d 629, 632 (2d Cir. 2001) (denying counsel on appeal where petitioner's appeal was not frivolous but nevertheless appeared to have little merit).

The Court has again reviewed the facts presented herein in light of the factors required by law. Plaintiff alleges that he was injured as he entered a Ford Expedition which the U.S. Marshals were using to transport him from the Buffalo Federal Detention Facility to a court appearance at the United States District Court for the Western District of New York in Rochester. Dkt. #1. As a threshold matter, plaintiff argues that because his complaint has survived the "screening process" as well as a motion to dismiss, the United States District Court for the Western District of New York has already concluded that his claims have merit. In addition, plaintiff argues that the issues presented are complex and that he requires the assistance of counsel in connection with the investigation and presentation of evidence. Dkt. #65. To the contrary, the facts and issues in this case, to wit, whether the United States Marshals were negligent is not complex. Moreover, plaintiff has not established that he is unable to represent himself in this matter and that the appointment of counsel is warranted under the factors set forth above. In fact, plaintiff has repeatedly demonstrated an ability to articulate his legal theories to the Court and plaintiff's testimony concerning the alleged incident. Thus, plaintiff has not established that he is unable to represent himself in this matter and that the appointment of counsel is warranted under the factors set forth above.

Plaintiff's motion for appointment of counsel (Dkt. #65), is denied without prejudice at this time. It is the plaintiff's responsibility to retain an attorney or press forward with this lawsuit pro se. 28 U.S.C. § 1654.
